(11-12)

A scientist, Frankenstein Houseman, is interested in using technology to grow different types of fruits and vegetables on his farm.

So far, he has changed bananas into carrots and turned apples into tomatoes. They are called genetically modified foods (GM foods).

More and more farmers like to grow GM plants because it is easy to grow them. Their DNA has been changed to fight the bad weather. That way, farmers can get more money by growing them. Besides, when the food becomes cheaper, it can feed more people in the world.

However, I don't like GM foods at all. I never buy GM foods in the supermarket. They make me feel like a lab rat for testing the safety of those plants because those foods are not natural. They may be bad for our health and lead to cancer.

 technology 科技 genetically modified 基因改造的 has been changed 已經被改變 test 試驗 safety 安全 natural 天然的 lead to 導致 cancer 癌症

- () 11. What is the writer trying to say?
- (A) Many people get cancer just because of GM foods.
- (B) Eating GM foods makes the world wonderful.
- (C) Genetically modified foods are natural.
- (D) GM foods may hurt people's health.

() 12. According to the reading, what can we know about GM foods?

- (A) They may not lead to cancer.
- (B) Everyone has to grow them at home.
- (C) They can't be cheaper than natural foods.
- (D) They can grow well even when the weather is terrible.

(13-15)

Humans spend 1/3 of their lives sleeping. Why? Nobody really knows the answer, but it is possible that sleep is more important to the brain than to the body. If sleep is only for the body to have a rest, people exercise more and they should also sleep more. However, it is not so. If someone doesn't get enough sleep, the person will soon find it hard to work and learn new things. If the person doesn't have enough sleep for a long time, he or she will become unhappy and will forget things easily.

What happens when we sleep? First, we have light sleep, and then the sleep becomes deeper before it becomes light sleep again. When it becomes light sleep again, we start to have dreams. During the dreams, the brain is very busy, but the body doesn't wake up. After the dreams, the sleep becomes deeper again. During an eight-hour sleep, our brain experiences this cycle four or five times.

People at different ages need different sleeping hours. Babies sleep 16 hours a day, and they spend half of the time dreaming. When we grow older, we sleep less. Old people sleep 5 to 6 hours a day. The time old people spend dreaming is only about 15 % of the total sleep time.

 human 人類 possible 可能的 brain 腦 deeper 較深的(deep 的比較級) experience 經歷 cycle 循環

() 13. According to the reading, what is the correct sleep cycle?

 according to 根據

- (A) Light sleep → deep sleep → dreams → light sleep → deep sleep.
- (B) Light sleep → deep sleep → light sleep → dreams → deep sleep.
- (C) Deep sleep → light sleep → deep sleep → dreams → deep sleep.
- (D) Light sleep → dreams → deep sleep → light sleep → dreams.

() 14. From this reading, what do we know about babies' sleep?

- (A) A baby's dream takes about 5 to 6 hours to finish.
- (B) When babies grow older, they sleep more.
- (C) Babies spend 15 % of their day sleeping.
- (D) Babies sleep more than old people.

() 15. According to the reading, which is true?

- (A) Babies and old people need the same sleeping hours.
- (B) When we dream, the brain doesn't stop working.
- (C) Sleep is not important for working and learning.
- (D) Old people never dream when they sleep.
