四、閱讀測驗 (每題 2 分，共 12 分)

I.

In many countries, sleeping while at work or at school is often seen as laziness. Not getting enough sleep, however, can have serious problems on people's performance. Not only does it make people feel bad, but it also makes it difficult for them to focus and causes them to make more mistakes. In fact, the errors caused by sleep-deprived employees can cost companies lots of money per year. And in some jobs, being overly tired at work can even be very dangerous. One report from the USA found that doctors not getting enough sleep caused around 100,000 deaths each year!

Studies have shown, however, if people can take just a 30-minute nap, it can seriously improve their mood and attention. Some big companies even set up some areas for workers to get some rest in. In some cultures, people tend to have a far healthier attitude toward sleeping at work. Take Italy for example, it's common to take a two-or-three-hour nap in the middle of the day and return to work feeling well rested.

Nowadays some ideas such as working from home and flexible working hours are becoming more and more acceptable. Both bosses and workers begin rethinking about their ideas about sleep and making it an acceptable part of the working day!

 performance 表現；employee 員工；deprived 被剝奪的；tend 傾向；acceptable 可接受的
