(34 ~36)

Do you eat pork in the afternoon or steak in the evening? In fact, eating red meat is not good for our environment. Maybe eating mealworms, the larvae of beetles, is another good choice in the future. Why may mealworms become our food? That's because they have protein. We can get it by eating mealworms, not pork or beef. Besides, keeping mealworms is easier and more environment-friendly than raising animals. Even you can do it. Just keep them in a glass, feed them with fruits or vegetables, and put the glass in a warm place. In this way, it doesn't create a lot of greenhouse gas. When you want to eat something with protein, you can get some from the glass. Are you ready to add some mealworms to your food? It might be a special dish, right?
